A Quest Success!

Praise and Prayer

PRAISE GOD FOR - New Christ-followers! and I passed my Thai language proficiency exam! Thank you for your prayers!

PLEASE PRAY FOR - the new believers to grow in their faith and know God more; me as I disciple them; more and more students to be interested in Christ; our next QUEST event coming soon; more teachers for TLC English Center!!! (can you be part of the solution?!)

On January 17 we had our first QUEST event, an afternoon full of fun and a clear presentation of the Gospel for students who were interested in learning more about Christ. Two of our students, Nok and Iew, decided to become Christians! We are thrilled! Thank you for praying for Quest and for these girls. In the weeks following their decision, both girls experienced rough times in their lives. Please continue to pray for them, to be strong in their faith and grow in their relationship with Jesus. I am now discipling them every week. Nok's boyfriend, John, is attending the group too, and also coming to church. Visit my blog to read more about the past two months, including baseball, graduations, and more pictures from QUEST at <http://laurenbecker.wordpress.com>! You'll be glad you did! ☺

Culture Corner Many motorbike riders in Thailand do not wear helmets. The underlying fatalistic Buddhist belief is that one's karma determines when it's time to die—wearing a helmet can't change karma. (Don't worry, I always wear mine!)
