Baptisms!

November 1, 2010

Since January I have been discipling three new believers—John, Nok, and Iew (left). In September they all chose to be baptized as a statement of their faith and commitment to God. We meet together weekly (right) to study the Bible and share our lives with each other. It's a highlight of my week!

For our last course we had several new students as well as returning ones. We enjoyed cooking together (middle right) and getting to know each other in and after class (below). We also had a QUEST event—a mall scavenger hunt! (lower right) Students heard about and discussed how God is our friend. Every QUEST event is an opportunity to plant seeds of the Gospel. I love it!

Happy Thanksgiving and Merry Christmas!

On a personal note... WINTER is quickly approaching in Thailand, meaning: I will close my windows and use a blanket at night; street dogs will don sweaters (seriously!); and, it's race season! At the end of November I will compete in the Laguna Phuket Triathlon. I'm excited! The race consists of a 1.8km swim in the ocean and a lagoon, a 55km bike ride, and a 12km run. Anyone care to join? 😊

Praise and Prayer PRAISE GOD FOR - Committed new believers! and two teachers helping until December
PLEASE PRAY FOR - Long-term teachers; students to show interest in Christ; effective Christmas outreach
