A Season of New Opportunities

Happy New Year! I pray that God will bless you, your family, and your church in 2012.

The month of December was packed with Christmas parties and activities, and several new opportunities for me to speak. First, we had our TLC English Center Christmas party, where we told the Christmas story and I was able to share how God sent Jesus to clean our hearts and lives from sin. Next, on December 18th I preached during our main service at church. It was my first time preaching at TLC, and my first time preaching in Thai! I was definitely nervous, but God helped me convey the message that He uses us even in our weakness to do His will. Finally, I was asked to share the meaning of Christmas at a village community center. It was the first time that this group of kids and their parents had heard the Gospel. I'm thankful for these opportunities to speak about Christ, and for God's help as I present in Thai.

NEW projects!!! Next week we are starting an English class for kids in our neighborhood, to connect with and reach whole families. ALSO, I am starting a discussion group for students who are interested to learn more about Jesus but aren't ready to say yes to Him yet. I'm really excited for what God is going to do!

Meet my friends...

Erica Zaun and Charity Cucancic are here at TLC English Center for 11 and 6 months, respectively. I'm so thankful for them! They teach, build friendships with our students, and help me in many other ways.

Praise and Prayer

PRAISE GOD FOR: many opportunities to share Christ in various places this Christmas; answered prayer for teachers to help at TLC English Center; new ministry projects starting this month.
PLEASE PRAY FOR: kids class beginning next week; a discussion group for students interested in Christ; health and strength in a time of increasing responsibilities; students to come to know Jesus!
